Key Takeaways

A meter of German fiber optic patch cord typically costs between €2.60 and €11, depending on type, connector, and quality.Price Range and Factors

The cost of fiber optic patch cords in Germany varies based on several factors:

• Type of fiber: Singlemode (OS2) cables are generally more expensive than multimode (OM1, OM2, OM3, OM4, OM5) cables .

• Connector type: LC, SC, ST, FC, and MTP/MPO connectors influence the price, with specialized connectors like E2000® costing more .

• Cable length: While prices are often listed per meter, longer cables may have bulk discounts. Standard 1-meter cables range from €4.10 to €11 without VAT .

• Quality and specifications: Low insertion loss, low return loss, and bend-insensitive fibers can increase the price .

Summary

For a standard 1-meter German fiber optic patch cord, expect to pay roughly €4–€11, with lower-end prices for basic multimode cables and higher-end prices for singlemode or specialized connectors. Custom lengths, high-performance fibers, or premium connectors can increase the cost further. Always check whether VAT is included when comparing prices .
