Materials and Standards
• Hot-dip galvanized steel is the most common material, offering optimal corrosion protection for most regions .

• Stainless steel 316L, aluminum alloy, and FRP are used in high-alkali soils, coastal areas, or chemical plants for enhanced corrosion and fire resistance .

• Ethiopian installations must comply with ESA SES 501:2015 (structural safety) and ET-NFC 2015 (fire codes), with minimum steel thickness of 1.5mm and Class A fire rating for public buildings . Grounding continuity testing per IEC 61537 is mandatory .
Sourcing and Costs
• Over 85% of cable tray systems are imported, mainly from China (72%), India (15%), and Turkey (8%) .

• Pre-fabricated components with snap-lock mechanisms can reduce labor costs by up to 30% compared to traditional welding .

• Import duties add 15–20% to material costs, and compliance with ESA and IEC standards is required .
Recommendations

For Ethiopian projects, choose cable trays based on durability, cost-efficiency, and compliance. Hot-dip galvanized steel is suitable for most industrial applications, while stainless steel or FRP is recommended for chemical plants, coastal areas, or high-humidity zones . Local suppliers like NAHMA and Brilltech can provide customized solutions and timely delivery, reducing reliance on imports .
